

APR -3 1925

©CIL 21323 ✓

✓ JUSTICE OF THE FAR NORTH ✓

Photoplay in 6 reels ✓

✓ Written and directed by Norman Dawn ✓

Author of the Photoplay (under section 62)
C.B.C. Film Sales Corporation of U.S. ✓

APR -3 1925

Washington, D. C.

Register of Copyrights
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

I herewith respectfully request the return of the following named motion picture films deposited by me for registration of copyright in the name of C.B.C. Film Sales Corporation

Justice of the Far North - 6 reels

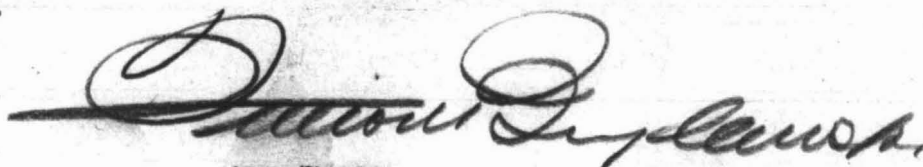

Respectfully,

FULTON BRYLAWSKI

The C.B.C. Film Sales Corporation hereby acknowledges the receipt of two copies each of the motion picture films deposited and registered in the Copyright Office as follows:

Title	Date of Deposit	Registration
Justice of the Far North	4-3-25	©Cl 21323

The return of the above copies was requested by the said
Company, by its agent and attorney on the 3rd day of April, 1925 and the said Fulton Brylawski for himself, and as the duly authorized agent and attorney of the said Company, hereby acknowledges the delivery to him of said copies, and the receipt thereof.

APR 7 1925

Columbia Pictures

©CIL 21323

Presents

"JUSTICE of the NORTH"

Cast of Characters

Umluk, Eskimo Chief.....	ARTHUR JASMINE
Wamba, Eskimo-Russian Halfbreed.....	MARCIA MANON
Nootka, Full-blooded half sister of Wamba.....	LASCA WINTER
Mike Burke, an ex-whaler.....	CHUCK REISNER
Izzy Hawkins, Mike's partner.....	MAX DAVIDSON
Doctor Wells, scientist and explorer.....	GEORGE FISHER
Lucy Parsons, widow.....	KATHERINE DAWN
Broken Nose McGee.....	STEVE MURPHY
Ilak, the wolf dog.....	HIMSELF

Story of the Play

UMLUK, the Eskimo chief, being the head of his tribe, is forced to go and hunt bear, his foot slipped when he threw the lance and he slid into one of those for food for his people. One day while poised and ready to spear a large polar terrible crevices between the icebergs. He was jammed in so closely that he could not extricate himself and his cries for help went unheard except by the wild birds in that frozen wilderness. The one chance in a million came his way when Doctor Wells, a scientist and explorer, came in the vicinity with his sled and guides. Hearing the faint calls and realizing that at any moment the bergs might slip and crush the poor unfortunate in their grasp, he made all possible haste and took the risk himself of having himself lowered by a rope into the yawning crevice and rescued Umluk. To Umluk's great surprise he had been rescued by a white man. His only other experiences with white men had been with the rascally traders who only tried to do him harm.

Coming home and entering his Igloo he found one of the kind of white men whom he hated so greatly. It was Mike Burke, an ex-whaler and partner with Izzy Hawkins, in the only trading post in that great section of the north. This renegade sailor was trying to win his own purposes, Umluk's promised bride, Wamba, a Russian half-breed Eskimo, whose great ambition it was to be one of those wonderful white women. Burke had been giving her some of the cheap trader's jewelry which had been winning her to his will.

Umluk's entrance forced Burke to leave and the unsuspecting lover did not realize that the woman had been blinded by the trader's trinkets and did not care for him. Her sister, Nootka, a full-blooded Eskimo, was very much in love with Umluk but he did not know of it and she showed her affection for him only in being concerned with the wounds he had received when he fell between the icebergs.

One day soon after Burke has to file and leave the trading post because of the many crimes he has committed against the Eskimos. With him he takes Wamba. They force Nootka to go with them so that she can not tell Umluk where they have gone and to do the cooking and dirty work for them.

Umluk coming home finds the Igloo empty and the birds flown. Rushing to the trading post he learns from Burke's partner just what has happened and taking but three of his swiftest dogs and a light sled with food for a few days, he starts off after the fleeing party. Travelling as lightly as he does he soon catches up to within sight of them and drawing hourly nearer. Just as he is about to reach them the ice cracks and he is precipitated into the water with his dogs and sleds and just manages to save himself and one dog.

Months later he reaches civilization. Here while wandering about in the town he finds Burke with Wamba, and Nootka is playing the drudge for them. During a fight with Burke he is blinded temporarily and loses them again as they think they have killed him and they flee.

Still more wandering and still further Wamba drops into degradation. Umluk again finds them and after many trials and tribulations he sees both Wamba and Nootka in their true light and he takes Nootka back to his icy solitude with him to start life over again with her.

Story and Direction by
NORMAN DAWN

Photography by
Tony Mormann George Madden

Columbia Pictures

©CIL 21323

Presents

"JUSTICE of the NORTH"

Cast of Characters

Umluk, Eskimo Chief.....	ARTHUR JASMINE
Wamba, Eskimo-Russian Halfbreed.....	MARCIA MANON
Nootka, Full-blooded half sister of Wamba.....	LASCA WINTER
Mike Burke, an ex-whaler.....	CHUCK REISNER
Izzy Hawkins, Mike's partner.....	MAX DAVIDSON
Doctor Wells, scientist and explorer.....	GEORGE FISHER
Lucy Parsons, widow.....	KATHERINE DAWN
Broken Nose McGee.....	STEVE MURPHY
Ilak, the wolf dog.....	HIMSELF

Story of the Play

UMLUK, the Eskimo chief, being the head of his tribe, is forced to go and hunt bear, his foot slipped when he threw the lance and he slid into one of those terrible crevices between the icebergs. He was jammed in so closely that he could not extricate himself and his cries for help went unheard except by the wild birds in that frozen wilderness. The one chance in a million came his way when Doctor Wells, a scientist and explorer, came in the vicinity with his sled and guides. Hearing the faint calls and realizing that at any moment the bergs might slip and crush the poor unfortunate in their grasp, he made all possible haste and took the risk himself of having himself lowered by a rope into the yawning crevice and rescued Umluk. To Umluk's great surprise he had been rescued by a white man. His only other experiences with white men had been with the rascally traders who only tried to do him harm.

Coming home and entering his Igloo he found one of the kind of white men whom he hated so greatly. It was Mike Burke, an ex-whaler and partner with Izzy Hawkins, in the only trading post in that great section of the north. This renegade sailor was trying to win his own purposes, Umluk's promised bride, Wamba, a Russian half-breed Eskimo, whose great ambition it was to be one of those wonderful white women. Burke had been giving her some of the cheap trader's jewelry which had been winning her to his will.

Umluk's entrance forced Burke to leave and the unsuspecting lover did not realize that the woman had been blinded by the trader's trinkets and did not care for him. Her sister, Nootka, a full-blooded Eskimo, was very much in love with Umluk but he did not know of it and she showed her affection for him only in being concerned with the wounds he had received when he fell between the icebergs.

One day soon after Burke has to flee and leave the trading post because of the many crimes he has committed against the Eskimos. With him he takes Wamba. They force Nootka to go with them so that she can not tell Umluk where they have gone and to do the cooking and dirty work for them.

Umluk coming home finds the Igloo empty and the birds flown. Rushing to the trading post he learns from Burke's partner just what has happened and taking but three of his swiftest dogs and a light sled with food for a few days, he starts off after the fleeing party. Travelling as lightly as he does he soon catches up to within sight of them and drawing hourly nearer. Just as he is about to reach them the ice cracks and he is precipitated into the water with his dogs and sleds and just manages to save himself and one dog.

Months later he reaches civilization. Here while wandering about in the town he finds Burke with Wamba, and Nootka is playing the drudge for them. During a fight with Burke he is blinded temporarily and loses them again as they think they have killed him and they flee.

Still more wandering and still further Wamba drops into degradation. Umluk again finds them and after many trials and tribulations he sees both Wamba and Nootka in their true light and he takes Nootka back to his icy solitude with him to start life over again with her.

Story and Direction by
NORMAN DAWN

Photography by
Tony Mormann George Madden

This document is from the Library of Congress
“Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection, 1912-1977”

Collections Summary:

The Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection, Class L and Class M, consists of forms, abstracts, plot summaries, dialogue and continuity scripts, press kits, publicity and other material, submitted for the purpose of enabling descriptive cataloging for motion picture photoplays registered with the United States Copyright Office under Class L and Class M from 1912-1977.

Class L Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi020004>

Class M Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi021002>

National Audio-Visual Conservation Center
The Library of Congress